RUTH ANN SWARTZENDRUBER

Throughout our four years together your many admirable qualities have contributed to the success of the class of 1966. As a home economics teacher, you have inspired many future homemakers. Serving as advisor to many committees, your ideas have helped originate many successful school functions. We appreciate the patience demonstrated in the long and tedious hours spent perfecting the Junior-Senior Banquet.

So, it is to you, Miss Swartzendruber, we dedicate this yearbook.

"Mama's Uncle Chris" presented by Linda Alderfer, reveals a young girl's viewpoint of her mother's harsh brother.

Dave Burkhardt probes into the mystery to discover who the murd

The senior's rendition of "The Happy Wanderer" took first place in the music competition.

While under a hypnotic spell, Wildcat Willie regresses into his childhood.

in "Trifles."

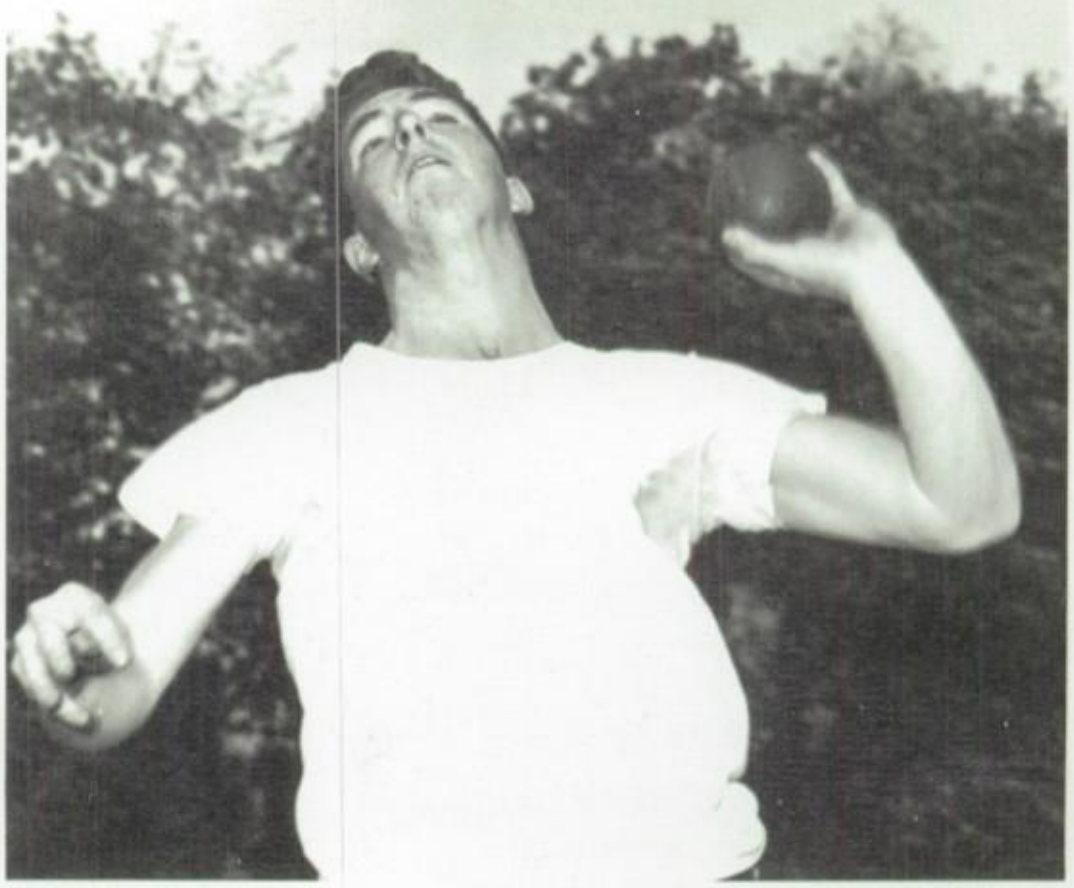
Marlin Derstine gleefully plots the murder of the evil-eyed old man in "The Telltale Heart."

ittle girl's prayer for ribbons for her hair.

Dull-witted Uncle Dick advises Aunt Betsy upon the welfare of David Copperfield.

Lacking in height Kenton Derstine tries to recapture the image of Daniel Webster in volume.

A few tired survivors reach the end of the mile run.



Every muscle straining, Vernon Myers reveals the agony of a winner.

Bill Swartley easily clears the bar at 8½'.

Donna Clemmer maintains the lead down the final stretch.

He's not flying, only broad jumping!

Every eye watches as Bill Bland wiggles his way over the bar.

Mary Styer's facial expression reveals the effort she exerts in the softball throw.

One final burst of speed could make a difference!

Gasps rise from the crowd as Larry Moyer clears 4'8".

VARSITY TEAM

After hours of long and hard work, successful results bring an enthusiastic response.

Cleon Hackman delays advance of opponent as Ernie Godshall maneuvers into position to receive ball.

Cleon Hackman takes a fleeting moment to reconsider as his opponent closes in beside him.

The opposing team's attempted block is a little too late — Don Schmidt's lay-up raises the score two points.

The agony and the ecstasy!

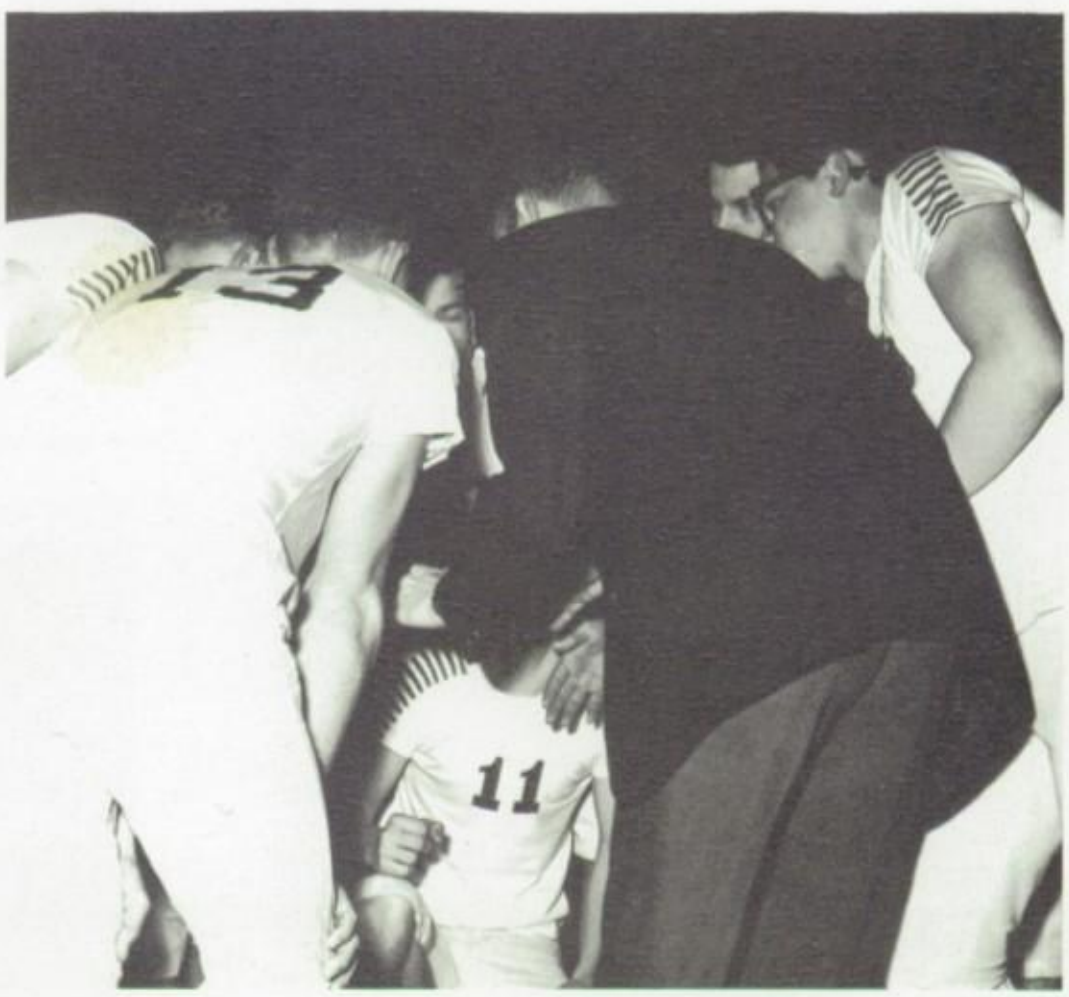
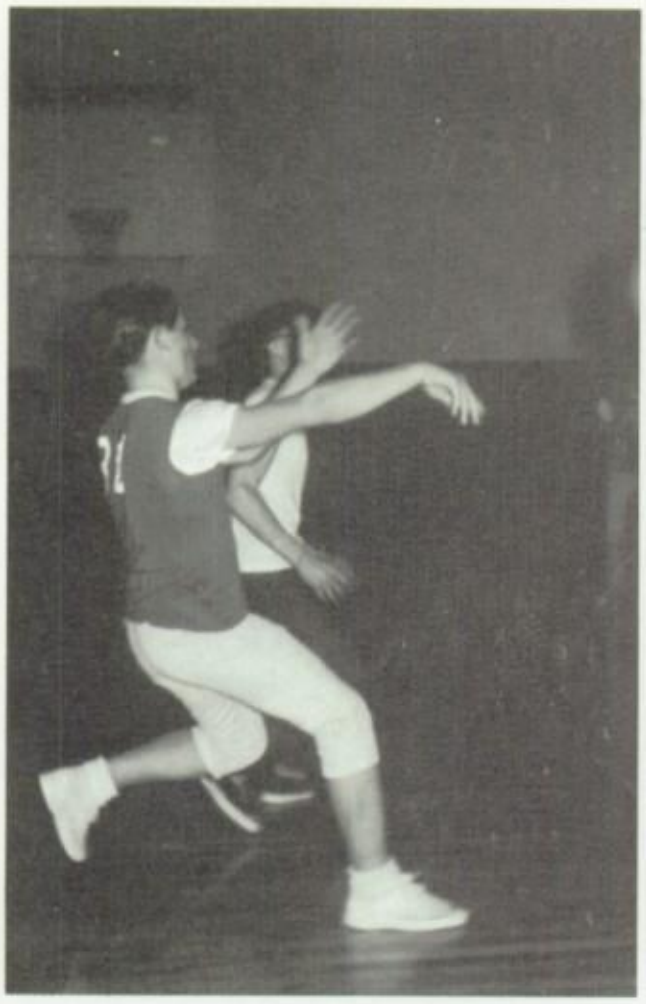
With a snap of the wrist Junior Alderfer sends a foul shot toward its mark.

The team concentrates as Mr. Martin instructs them on their next play.





Cleon Derstine flips a quick pass to an unseen receiver in the J.V. vs. Senior All-Star game.

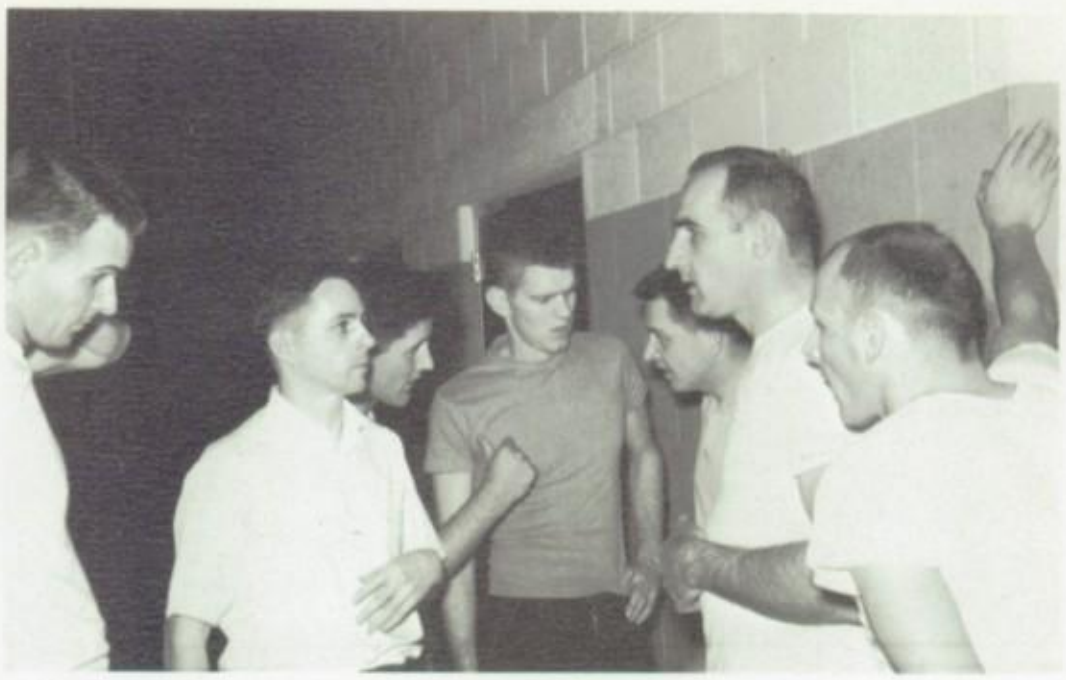
J.V. TEAM

Practice makes perfect!

Dean Clemmer makes a vigorous attempt to get the rebound.

Where to send the ball next appears to be Kenton Derstine's major problem at the moment.

Field enthusiasm winds up with a minor collision.



Mr. Lapp scratches his head in consternation as he trys to follow the basketball jargon of his faculty teammates.

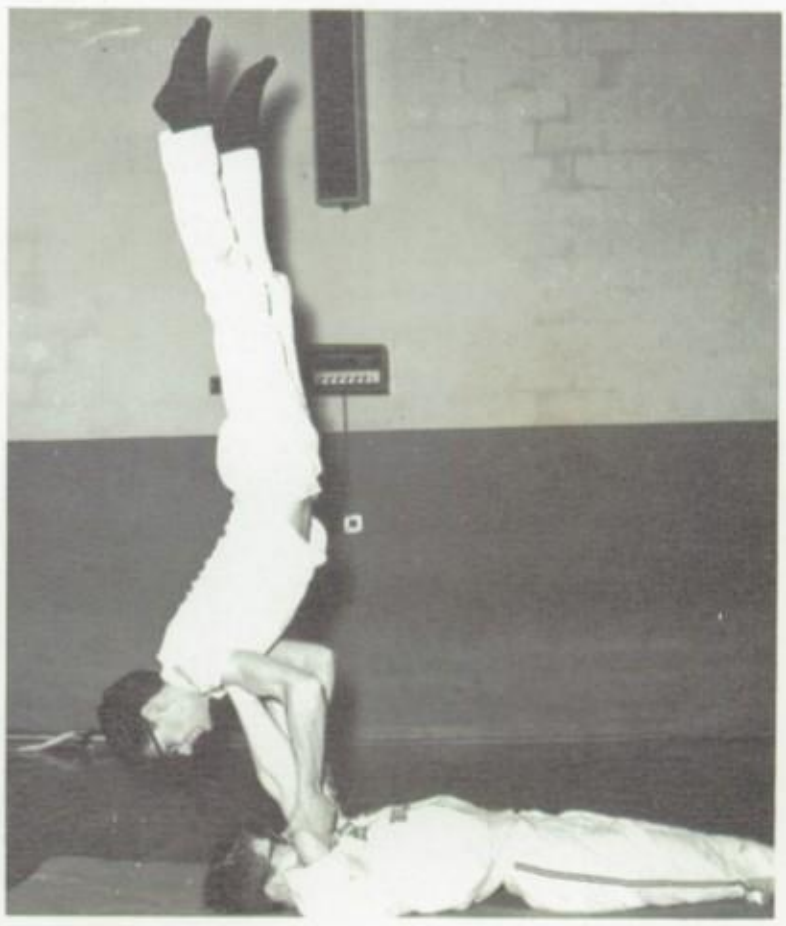
Lack of sneakers doesn't hamper Sue Swartley's progress as she speeds toward the center line.

The ancient Egyptian culture comes alive in the fellows' gym class.

Bruce Kooker straddles the pitcher's box as the other players tensely await the results.

SPORTS

A real test of balance and strength.



Carol Byler's poise on the tennis court assures good competition for any rival.

As the first baseman turns his attention toward the outfield, Paul Rush is safe at first.

A heavy snowfall which eliminated classes for several days added new beauty to the school campus.

The past year's experiences are the keys

to unlock even greater doors.
